

Subject: GCSE Engineering

Task 5: CAD

Use the structure strip to help you answer the 8 mark exam question below:

Computer-Aided Design (CAD) is often used by manufacturers to create designs for the plastic casings of electrical products. Discuss the advantages and disadvantages of using CAD.

Key points to include:

Introduce the question. ☐

Have you identified some advantages? ☐

Have you also identified some disadvantages? ☐

Have you justified all of your advantages and disadvantages? ☐

Have you included any specialist engineering terms? ☐

DO NOT USE BULLET POINTS AS YOU WILL ONLY GAIN 2 MARKS MAX.

